The input X is valid just before the positive edge transition. The output will appear as soon as the input is applied, during the same clock cycle (or state time). Notice that the output is valid just before the positive clock edge (when the valid input is present), as illustrated below:
MOORE Machine

The output will appear at the next clock cycle after the input has been applied.